

Print | Close Window

Subject: Invitation to the UNESCO - EFF Oxford Debate on mLearning

From: WSIS Knowledge Communities <wsisplatform@unesco.org>

Date: Mon, Sep 15, 2014 1:25 pm

To: presidency <presidency@tauniversity.org>

Dear colleagues,

UNESCO and the Education Fast Forward Foundation are organizing an online Oxford Debate on Mobile Learning from Thursday 18 - Friday 26 September, 2014.

Ms Barbara Reynolds (Guyana) will be moderating Mr Steve Vosloo (South Africa) arguing the side of the 'Idealist' and Mr Osama Manzar (India) taking on the perspective of the 'Realist'.

Steve will be drawing on his experiences as a mobile learning specialist and working with ICTs in developing countries to convince audiences – and his opponent – that mobile learning is here to stay.

Osama, on the other hand, though a firm believer in ICT4D, will be avidly picking apart the Idealist's arguments with the harsh realities of mLearning today.

The online Oxford Debate follows a Live Debate on Wednesday on 17 September - <http://www.effdebate.org>

Join the Oxford Debate, have your say, be swayed by Osama and Steve's arguments, and VOTE as many times as you like. For any questions, email: a.caine@unesco.org; l.young@unesco.org; deds.castillo@gmail.com

Regards,
Abel Caine

UNESCO

<http://www.wsis-community.org/pg/register?code=6b5c9b73c73d4f91f77f6edde34650ca&mid=1981172>

Copyright © 2003-2014. All rights reserved.